About the Refresher Programme

Financial system is an integral part of an economy and seamless functioning of this sector is important for an economy to grow. Though the financial sector in the Indian economy has had a chequered history since independence, it has made substantial economic progress over the past few decades and is now characterized by calibrated financial deepening and inclusion. Significant events and shifts in geopolitics, global health and climate change are transforming behaviours in financial markets at an unprecedented pace. The discussion on sustainable growth has shifted focus towards the rural and marginalised sections of the society who were earlier excluded from the benefits of globalisation and liberalisation. Technological advancements have resulted in massive shift in the mode of operation in the financial system. Keeping track with the gaining momentum and fast pace, Governments continue to adapt their approaches to regulation. However, with the increasing digital landscape and financial system's dependence on it, there has been growing concerns about cyber security. Gone are the days when cyber security was an after-thought, in fact the cyber threats are being continually considered and refined. All these issues were brought to the fore again during the recent outbreak of COVID 19 and subsequent disruption caused by it.
